WHY ACCOUNTANTS REFER

Objective planning without product pressure.

Ken helps clients make coordinated financial decisions while respecting the accountant's existing relationship and role.

Tax-aware retirement planning

RRSP/RRIF withdrawals, taxable income, CPP/OAS timing, OAS clawbacks, pension income, and sustainable spending.

Estate and succession issues

Estate equalization, intergenerational transfer, capital gains funding, trusts, business succession, and family harmony.

Simple positioning

Clients receive planning advice without pressure to move assets, buy products, or enter an assets-under-management relationship.

Corporate planning fit

Salary, dividends, retained earnings, corporate investments, personal retirement goals, and long-term withdrawal strategy.

Transparent engagement

Fees are disclosed, discussed, and agreed upon up front before the Letter of Engagement is signed.

GOOD CLIENTS TO REFER

- Near-retirees who need a tax-efficient income plan
- Recently retired clients unsure how to draw from investments
- Incorporated professionals with retained earnings
- Business owners considering succession, wind-down, or sale
- High-net-worth families with estate or equalization concerns
- DIY investors who want a second set of eyes

COMMON REFERRAL TRIGGERS

- "Can I afford to retire?"
- "When should I take CPP or OAS?"
- "How much should I draw from my RRSP/RRIF this year?"
- "How do I access money in my corporation?"
- "I am worried about taxes when I die."
- "I want advice, not a salesperson."

I know an independent, fee-only financial planner who specializes in retirement income, tax-sensitive planning, corporate planning, and estate questions. He does not sell products or charge based on assets. It may be worth having him build or review your plan.
